Why is "Taxation Without Representation" a relevant motto for present day citizens of Washington, D.C.?

The motto "Taxation Without Representation" is still accurate for the citizens of D.C. because they are paying high federal taxes but they are not represented in United States Congress. This motto is relevant for citizens of Washington, D.C. because they do not have a say in how their tax dollars are being spent.
